Dream Row Plays the Hard Rock

Dream Row shows their heavier side Aug 6th at Hard Rock Café with a lineup featuring some of Nashville's finest local rock performers.

Entitled "Rock over Broadway", the show begins at 10 p.m. with the doors opening 30 minutes prior. The Hard Rock Café provides a fantastic stage for Dream Row to showcase their rock credentials.

"Dream Row is excited to produce a full rock show at a venue in the heart of downtown Nashville," said Dream Row Director of Operations Dan Shaw, "we're excited about the show and confident our lineup will not only captivate listeners inside the venue, but also attract people from the street."

The lineup for the night boasts a variety of local artists. Snow Black Sunday has worked with Dream Row in the past, but both Lunge and Kris Bell are relative newcomers for the booking agency.

"We're enthusiastic about the opportunity to work with Dream Row and perform our original work at such a great venue," said Snow Black Sunday guitarist Joe Black.

Each band has found success in their own way; Snow Black Sunday's debut album initially sold out at first press while Kris Bell garnered radio play from various stations including 102.9 the Buzz. Lunge continues to record material for their upcoming release entitled "Album of the Year."

Before Dream Row published Dream Row Magazine, the media firm booked talent locally. Dream Row continues to build its reputation as a legitimate booking agency by maintaining a roster of talented artists.

Dream Row remains dedicated to promoting independent music and providing artists and professionals with the resources they need to excel. A multi-faceted firm, Dream Row publishes Dream Row magazine, which provides readers with insight into the entertainment industry to better prepare them for career decisions, and operates Plugs Entertainment Industry Network, a business network which connects entertainment artists and professionals across the world.
